PURIFICATION OF THE OYSTER

Simple Method by Which Even the Worst May Be Made Fit for Consumption.

At a recent meeting of the Académie des Sciences de Paris, a report was presented on some experiments made at Concarneau laboratory with reference to the methods that should be used to prevent accidents caused by contaminated oysters. The author has been able to convince himself that it is possible to render shellfish harmless, even after they have been reared in the most unsanitary of surroundings, by placing them for a fortnight in filtered water before selling them to the public. He states, moreover, that this form of "quarantine" in pure water has no evil effects on the quality of the oysters. If all this be so, there is surely no necessity to run the risk of typhoid fever from oysters polluted by sewage. Possibly some will remember the contamination caused in Dublin several years ago by an epidemic of a fatal type of typhoid fever traced finally to the oysters fattened upon the pollutions from the drains. Even today there are many who justly dread the oyster taken from the best known beds in British waters.—Montreal Herald.

LESSONS DANGER TO AVIATOR

Ingenious Device by Which Altitude May Be Reckoned Almost Infinitely.

An ingenious plan which has been suggested for measuring the altitude of an aeroplane, and which, while it requires the services of an independent operator, demands no other apparatus than an accurate stop watch, is the acoustic method. Writing of it in Cassier's Magazine, Henry Harrison Supple says: "Any sharp sound, such as a quick whistle, or report which may be differentiated from the noise of the machine itself, will be returned to the ear of the operator in the form of an echo from the surface of the earth. If, therefore, the time elapsing between the sound and the echo be noted, the corresponding distance may be estimated from the known velocity of sound. Taking the velocity of sound at 1,100 feet a second, or a little more than 100 feet for a tenth of a second, and, remembering that it is the double distance, going and returning, which is thus computed, the error of observation would be between 50 and 60 feet for one-tenth of a second."

ENGLISH-GROWN TOBACCO.

Winchcombe St. Peter in Gloucestershire began the cultivation of tobacco in England toward the end of the sixteenth century, and the inhabitants are said to have derived considerable profit from it until the trade was placed under restrictions. An entry in Pepys' Diary on September 19, 1667, concerning the coming of a cousin of his to town proceeds: "She tells me how the life guard, which we thought a little while since was sent down into the country about some insurrection, was sent to Winchcombe to spoil the tobacco there, which it seems the people there do plant contrary to law, and have always done, and still been under force and danger of having it spoiled, as it hath been oftentimes, and yet they will continue to plant it. The place, she says, is a miserable poor place."

SOME APPETITE.

Of sporting offers made by the large eaters of old, that made to Charles Gustavus of Sweden when he was besieging Prague is worthy of recall. A peasant offered for the king's amusement to devour a large hog then and there. General Koenigsmark, so runs the tale, suggested that one with such an appetite ought to be burned as a sorcerer, on which the peasant said to the king: "Sir, if your majesty will make that old gentleman take off his spurs, I will eat him before I begin the pig."

Armory For Bowling Green

Warren county will soon have as modern and pretty little armory as any in the State if the plans of the Fiscal Court, which recommended in this city today after a recess of several days, do not miscarry. A motion was carried authorizing the erection of an armory and annex to the county jail the cost of both, with plumbing and heating for both the armory and jail, not to exceed $7,000, provided the county can make a contract with the State for $200 annual rental for ten years.—News

No Off-set Raise.

It has practically been agreed by the members of the Fiscal Court to reduce the county tax levy from fifty cents on the $100 to forty-five cents in the event that the raise of the State Board of Equalization is as much as five per cent. This suggestion was made by County Judge Denhardt when the court convened last week, and met with the immediate approval of every member.—Bowling Green News.

SHOCK TO THE CONGRESSMAN

Statesman Very Much "Gold Bricked" When He Purchased Souvenirs.

Even statesmen, according to a contributor to the Boston Transcript, sometimes find it a ticklish business to buy souvenirs in a foreign land. Not long ago a party of Americans in Mexico succeeded in buying some of the roughly beaten gold necklaces common among the Tehuana women. A United States congressman, in particular, became the owner of two very handsome chains, which the accommodating natives even allowed to be "tested" by a neighboring jeweler.

At Laredo, Tex., on the homeward journey, the customs officers boarded the train, and every man was compelled to show his purchases made across the border. The assessments came fast and furious, and finally the congressman marched up to the counter with his Tehuana necklaces. The customs clerk glanced at them and laid them aside.

The congressman groaned inwardly; he thought it would take a special assessment to get the chains through, and he did not know whether he would have money enough or not.

Five minutes passed, and the congressman, growing impatient, gently pushed his golden treasures under the nose of the customs officer.

Again they were kindly but firmly shoved to one side. Said the congressman then:

"I have a couple of solid gold chains here on which I wish to pay duty."

"Very well, sir, produce them," said the customs officer. "Those you have been showing me are solid brass."

F. C.—What's the matter?

S. C.—Well, papa says that my husband must be a keen and experienced man, of good health and good habits. Mamma says that he must be frugal, industrious, attentive and moral. And I say that he must be handsome, dashing, talented and rich. We are still looking for him.

COULD ANYTHING BE WORSE?

Marie M. was visiting when she saw a neighbor go past. "There goes Mr. W.," she said. "I wouldn't speak to him for anything. He chased us out of his sand-pile and talked awful to us."

"Why, Marie, what did he say?" asked the hostess.

"Oh, I wouldn't dare repeat the things he said. He talked just awful! He scolded us like a mother!"—Success Magazine.

ABREAST OF THE TIMES.

The presiding lady in the household of the Turkish minister at Washington is a very different lady from the one commonly associated with the thoughts of the empire of the sultan. She is a New York girl, wife of the son of the Turkish minister, and is a Christian. It is needless to say that there are no valued ladies in the Turkish embassy.

KILL IT.
